c. 1900-ongoing

29,295 textual records, 581 booklets, 22 photographs, 1 artifact | 88 linear feet | 59 boxes

The Woman's Improvement Club of Corona was formed in February 1899 as the Town Improvement Association of Corona, California. It soon became the Woman's Improvement Club. It was federated with the state and district in 1904. The building itself, now on the National Historic Register, was built in 1913 on a site donated by Mrs. E.L. S. Joy and Mrs. W. H. Jameson.

The organization is responsible for starting the Corona Humane Society, the City Sanitation Department was begun at their instigation, and they took on the care and planting of city parks until the city provided park maintenance. In 1912 they began the Settlement House to aid the less fortunate. They provided books and furniture to begin the Library, provided food and milk for the underprivileged at schools, bed linens for the hospital, established a local chapter of the Red Cross, and more. In recent years they donate significant amounts to the Settlement House, The Make a Wish Foundation, and provide scholarships for local high school students.

In addition to Mrs. W. H. Jameson and Mrs. E.L.S. Joy, key women who volunteered their services were Mrs. Shirley Willetts, Bes Andrews, Flora Mueller, Dodie Snedecor, Dr. Bernice Jameson Todd, Anne, Helen and Stella Platt and Ethel VanDerhoof. Several women from this group were active in city politics, even becoming mayors of the City of Corona, Rena Parker and Andrea Puga.

The manuscript collection includes documents from 1899 to 2004. Included are scrapbooks, minutes of meetings, financial records that include invoices, receipts, and treasurer reports. The reports from committee chairwomen are included. The beginnings of the Settlement House, a charitable arm of the group are included in the Philanthropic folder. Lists of women members over the years, histories written on the organization dating back to 1893. Documents on the clubhouse itself, beginning with documents on the purchase of the land and the contract with the architect. There are invoices on the upkeep, rental and use.

Note: When searching for particular information, be aware that some documents were in a separate collection on their own and were processed as such, others on a similar topic may have been included with the minutes or president's reports within the minutes and therefore were processed with those papers.
